

How does the electricity get reconnected after a fire?

Virginia Power will reconnect the electrical meter after the Building Construction and Inspections Department notifies them that the electrical system for the building has been inspected. The Division of Fire notifies the Building Construction and Inspections Department when the electrical meter has been disconnected due to a fire incident.